Terms of Service

Effective 1 September 2026

These are the terms on which the platform is provided: what you can expect from us, what we ask of you, and how a subscription works.

1. Agreement and scope

Where you use the service for an organisation, you confirm that you are authorised to act for it and that it accepts the obligations in these terms. Mandatory consumer protections in your jurisdiction are unaffected; where they conflict with these terms, they prevail.

The scope, quotation, delivery and acceptance of a specific study are governed by the Research Terms and the applicable quotation. If the three differ, the quotation controls for that study.

2. Accounts, teams and seats

You provide accurate, current and contactable account details, and keep your credentials confidential. Activity under an account is treated as the account holder’s.

Team plans are licensed by seat. The workspace owner may assign, change or withdraw a seat, and is responsible for what members do inside it. Seats may not be resold, rented or shared with people outside the team; access is withdrawn when someone leaves.

Tell us immediately if an account has been compromised or accessed without authority. We take reasonable steps to protect the workspace while we review the report.

3. Plans, subscriptions and payment

Plans are billed monthly or yearly; the tiers, features, allowances and prices shown on the plans page apply. A yearly plan holds its price for the term; renewal after the term is at the price then in force.

Automatic renewal. A subscription renews at the start of each billing period, charged to the payment method you selected. You may turn off automatic renewal before the current period ends; the period you have paid for continues to its end. If a balance is short or a charge fails, we notify you and keep access for a reasonable grace period, after which paid features may be suspended and data is handled under section 8.

Payment methods. We accept payment from account balance, by bank transfer and in cryptocurrency, as offered on the payment page at the time. Bank transfers and cryptocurrency take effect once the funds are received and reconciled; exchange movements, bank charges and intermediary deductions before receipt are borne by the payer.

Invoices and taxes. Invoices for completed payments are available under Invoices and billing. Whether a price includes tax is as stated on the payment page and on the invoice; taxes payable by you under applicable law are yours to bear.

Price changes. We may change list prices. A signed quotation is performed at the price it states; otherwise a change applies to new subscriptions and renewals from the date it is published or notified.

4. Allowances, quotas and fair use

The AI credits, questionnaires, own-list responses and seats included in a plan are those shown on the plans page. Unused monthly allowance carries over for one month, up to one month's allowance; separately purchased credits remain valid for 12 months.

Quotas (the number of responses planned for each cell) are set by you, and execution follows the confirmed study. To protect participants and data quality, we may limit unusually frequent calls, repeated submissions or attempts to avoid metering, and explain when we do.

Allowances and quotas are for the account or workspace that holds them. They may not be transferred, resold in parts, or metered around by automation.

5. Content, data and intellectual property

Your content remains yours. You grant us a limited licence to host, process, reproduce and display it in order to provide the service. You confirm that you hold the rights needed to submit it and that it does not infringe the rights of others.

The platform — interface, templates, methods, documentation, marks and code — belongs to us or our licensors. No intellectual property is transferred beyond the rights expressly granted here.

Research data. Responses to a questionnaire you create and publish belong to you, and we process them on your instructions and under the Privacy Policy. To improve the service we may analyse de-identified, aggregated statistics about usage and quality; we do not re-identify individuals from them or disclose them to anyone else.

Suggestions and feedback you send may be used to improve the product without payment, and without disclosing where they came from.

6. Availability, changes and maintenance

We maintain the platform to a reasonable standard and give notice of planned maintenance where we can. We do not promise uninterrupted service; interruptions caused by maintenance, upgrades, third-party services or events beyond our control are restored as quickly as possible.

We may add, change or retire features. Where a change materially affects a paid plan, we notify you in advance and, where necessary, offer an alternative or adjust the remaining balance of the term.

7. Liability

To the fullest extent permitted by law:

- we are not liable for indirect, incidental, special, consequential or punitive loss, including loss of profit, goodwill, data or opportunity;
- our total liability for any claim is limited to the fees you paid for the service in the twelve months before the claim arose.

Nothing here limits liability for wilful misconduct, gross negligence, personal injury, fraud, or anything else that law does not allow to be limited.

Research conclusions depend on human judgement and external conditions. We do not warrant any particular sample size, response rate, completion time or finding; results are used at your own judgement.

8. Suspension, termination and refunds

We may restrict, suspend or terminate an account or study where these terms or the Acceptable Use Policy are breached; where the research is unlawful or harms others; where payment is overdue; on a lawful demand from a court or regulator; or to protect the platform and other users.

Data after termination. After an account ends, you may request an export of the data we are still able to provide within the period stated in the notice. After that we handle or delete it under the Privacy Policy and applicable law. Where termination follows serious breach, we do not undertake to retain it.

Refunds. A service period that has begun is not refunded, except where law requires otherwise. Where we cannot provide a paid service for reasons of our own, we refund the proportion not provided, or replace it with equivalent service if you agree. Third-party costs already incurred, such as fieldwork carried out, are not refundable.

9. Governing law and disputes

These terms are governed by the laws of the jurisdiction in which the contracting entity is registered, without regard to conflict-of-law rules. Mandatory consumer protections where you live continue to apply.

Disputes are first raised with us in good faith. If they are not resolved, they are submitted to the competent courts where the contracting entity is registered. While a dispute is open, both parties continue to perform the obligations it does not concern.

10. General

Indemnity. You indemnify us against third-party claims, losses and reasonable costs arising from content you submit or research you commission, to the extent the claim results from your breach of these terms, the Acceptable Use Policy or applicable law. We tell you promptly and may take part in the defence.

Force majeure. Neither side is liable for delay or failure caused by events beyond reasonable control — network or platform failure, government action, natural events, or a supplier default — provided the affected side informs the other and resumes as soon as it can.

Assignment and survival. Neither side may assign this agreement without the other's written consent, except to an affiliate or a successor in a merger or sale of substantially all assets. Provisions that by their nature survive — confidentiality, intellectual property, liability, indemnity — survive termination.

Publicity. Once an engagement is complete we may refer to it in credentials and brief case summaries, unless you ask us in writing not to.

Entire agreement, severability, waiver. These terms, the Acceptable Use Policy, the Research Terms, the Privacy Policy and any quotation are the entire agreement and replace earlier discussions. If a provision is unenforceable it is read down to the minimum extent needed and the rest stands. Not enforcing a provision once is not a waiver of it.

Notices. Formal notices go to the address on your account and to support@guanyisearch.com, and are treated as received when delivered.

11. Changes and contact

We may update these terms to reflect changes in the service, the law or our operations. Material changes are notified before they take effect through the service, by email or by another reasonable method; continuing to use the service after that date means accepting the updated terms.

Questions about these terms, or requests to exercise a right under them: support@guanyisearch.com, with “Terms of Service” in the subject line.

Issued in English. Any translation is provided for convenience only.